POPULAR EDUCATION.

VOLUME XIV.

mmer Quarters as Springtime Wears Away

The Chances for the Next Session—
The Work of S nator Brown.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution WASHINGTON, May 22 .- Ine people of Georgia are alive on the educational question. A few days ago Senator Brown presented a memorial from the citizens of Gilmer county in favor of national aid to this good cause, strongly setting forth the reasons therefor, and declaring it the duty of the government to protect its citizens in time of peace as well as in war. The senator now has for presentation to the senate the resolutions passed by the legislature last summer on the same subject. His position on the question is well known. I believe the first speech he ever made in the senate was in favor of educating the masses and national aid to effect it. He has lost none of his enthusiasm on this line, and will be heard from again when the opportunity arrives. The admirable argument of State School Commissioner Orr before the committee on education this session helped the cause very much.

Another Georgian who has bent his energies in this direction; Mr. Claypert Health

Another Georgian who has bent his energies in this direction is Mr. Clements. He has a place on the committee on education. No man on it has been more active in favoring liberal legislation. Had the committee been composed of such men as he, the house would long ago have passed some good educational bill with plenty of money in it.

But I regret to write that the chances are projected by accomplishment of the committee of the committee of the committee of the chances are against the accomplishment of anything at this session. Year after year congress has talked of doing something toward aiding pub-lic education and talk is all we have had. At lic education and talk is all we have had. At the opening of this session the pressure was unprecedently great. Petitions, memorials and resolutions poured in from all parts of the country. Representative men of both parties from all sections were pronounced in their opinions favorable to such legislation. There opinions favorable to such legislation. There were unmistakable signs that the people wanted congress to do something for the cause of intelligence. Weeks ago the committee of the house agreed to report a bill appropriating ten millions a year for five years to be distributed among the states on a basis of illiteracy and applied under state laws. It was the duty of Mr. Sherwin, of Illinois, to report this bill to the house. For some reason it was held back and back until only the other day it was given to the house. Its chances to pass or even to be a year for five years to be distributed among the states on a basis of illiteracy and applied under state laws. It was the duty of Mr. Sherwin, of Illinois, to report this bill to the house. For some reason it was held back and back until only the other day it was given to the house. Its chances to pass or even to be considered now, are poor. The only way to get it up will be to make it the special order, and such a motion would meet objection from every quarter at this stage of the session. Various obstacles are in the way, and the session will probably close with this bill on the clerk's desk. Georgia is interested in it to the amount of about three-quarters of a million yearly for her schools-more than twice what she pays out of her own treasury. Mr. Clements, himself, active as he is in favor of the bill admits that its chances for passage at this session are slim. The delay will only bring fresh evidences of the general desire for such legislation. If the friends of the bill will take hold of it vigorously early in December I believe it can be pushed through both houses, and one year from now be showering its blessings over the country. The beauty of it is they will fall thickest where they are most needed, for, be it remembered, the money is to be distributed on a basis of illiteracy.

GEORGIA OFFICES.

The insatiate Georgia syndicate is forever on the lookout for some fresh victim. It seems to be purging the federal offices in Georgia. It has now pounced on Mr. J. F. Andews, at Washington, a gentleman who fills the post-office at that place to the satisfaction of the people, and whom they naturally want to retain. But the Long-street brigade trot out a Mr. Ware, of Athens, I suppose a good Speer man, and offer him to supplant Andrews. Why Andrews should supplant Andrews. Why Andrews should go, or why an Athens man should be imported into Washington where he is not wanted nobody says. The magic words here are "he is one of us," and they are Mr. Ware's talisman. Of his merits I knownothing, but the citizens of Washington offer vehement protests to his appointment. As the salary of the office is below $1,000 the case rests with the department. Both Senator Brown and Mr. Stephens have emphatically requested that Ware be not appointed, and the arst assistant postmaster general the other day told Mr. Stephens that nothing hasty would be done in the matter and that he should be consulted the matter and that he should be consulted again. If the syndicate press Ware, the people of Washington may prepare to welcome their new postmaster. The Brunswick office their new postmaster. The Brunswick office is still in dispute. North, the disabled union soldier, backed by the almost unanimous approval of the citizens, according to syndicate programme, was to go to make room for Newton, "one of us." The president sent in his nomination months ago, but it is hung up. Senetor Brown has carnestly requested nomination months ago, but it is hung up. Senator Brown has earnestly requested that it be withdrawn, but a response has not yet been had. What office will the liberal syndicate pounce on next? The leaders of this wonderful political combination are leaving all the Washington work to Mr. Atkins now. I should think he would have enough to do to attend to his own ambition for the bench. But neither General Longstreet nor Colonel Farrow has been here in a long time. They have won Arthur so completely that he can now be wooed through Mr. Atkins as proxy. Bryant won Arthur so completely that he can how be wooed through Mr. Atkins as proxy. Bryant flits about here occasionally like a "perturbed spirit" that knows no rest. He supplies the place Pledger filled until he yielded to the soft seductions of the Atlanta surveyorship and buried his vows of eternal enmity to Speer. I don't think the syndicate has laid a thirt for Bryant yet. He has come out strong Speer. I don't think the syndicate has laid a bait for Bryant yet. He has come out strong for Gartrell for governor and wan-s the republicans to nominate him.

POINTS.

Mr. Dibble, over whose contest the democrats are filibustering, is the youngest and handsomest member of the South Carolina delegation and one of the brightest lawyers in the state. His home is at Orange and he represents the Charleston district.

Governor Colquitt, Mrs. Colquitt and Miss Hattie Colquitt, reached Washington from New York this morning, and spent the day at the Metropolitan. They will leave for Atlanta

If Sunset Cox don't wear out during the dead-lock in the house he will deliver his an-mual oration against the river and harbor bill. The senators have iced mineral waters in the cloak rooms during these hot days. They come high, but the government is rich.

Senator John Logan is greatly improved and about ready for work. He is mentioned as a presidential candidate for '84. Mr. Speer is with the democrats in refusing to vote to take up the Mackey-Dibble contest

Governor Bullock is here. He is talked of freely as a member of the tariff commission. Senator Mitchell has symptoms of backbone in his fight against Cameron.

Congressman Black continues to improve. Another day of bedlam in the house. F. H. R. THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 25, 1882.

He explained that the refusal to expurgate certain lines alleged to be obscene is the cause of the action on the part of the attorney general and the consequent abandonment of the publication by Osgood & Co. It was in May, 1881, that the idea of bringing out a new and complete edition of "Leaves of Grass" was broached, the Doet receiving an inquiry to that offer from Under the order for the calendar the senate took up the senate bill for the relief of the officers and crew of the United States steampoet receiving an inquiry to that effect from the Boston publishers He answered that he had contemplated such a step, but before en-

In the house the request of the senate for the return of the five per cent land bill was acceded to. Mr. Calkins, of Indiana, rising to a question of personal privilege, sent to the clerk's desk and had read that portion of a letter written by Mr. Hewitt, of New York, to Mr. Manning, of Mississippi, which charges that the committee on elections refused to investigate the charges of forgery preferred before that committee. Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, contended that the letter failed to show that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Calkins) had been alluded to in any relation. The speaker ruled that the matter did pre-In November. The sale of "Leaves of Grass" was fair, the author's royalty during the winter and early spring amounting to more than $4,000. District Attorney Stevens, of Boston, acting under instructions from Attorney General Marston, informed Osgood & Co. that he intended to institute a suit to compel them to stop the circulation of Whitman's volume, on the ground that it came under the head of obscene literature. A long list of passages charges against the committee, were confined to the newspapers he had not noticed them, but when they were made by a member of congress it was a reflection on every member torney intimated that if they were stricken out the publication might continue. On March 21, Osgood & Co. wrote to the author of the committee. Probably it was not so in tended by the gentleman, (Mr. Hewitt) but nevertheless it was a reflection which ought to be refuted at once. The committee on elections had never failed to inquire into the truth of any charge made before it. A long and noisy discussion then arose as to the action of the committee. Mr. Atherton, of Ohio, charges of forgery, and Mr. Calkins denying that statement. to impossible to understand the points made by the principal debaters. The house was unusually full, and nearly all the mem-bers were on their feet, many of them speaking at once. The confusion increased as time passed, and at 12 o'clock the house was in an uproar, which only abated when Mr. Calkins de-manded of his friends that, in the spirit of fairness, Mr. Atherton should be allowed to take the floor. Mr. Reagan, of Texas, ob-jected. Then Mr. Dibble, of South Carolina, arose to a question of privilage, but his openarose to a question of privilage, but his open-ing remarks failing to present such a question, objection was made to his proceeding.

ments which he had that the ter. He asserted that the whole matter should be recommitted, and the charge of forgery investigated. If that were done he would be no party to any man of the chief signal officer for 1881.

A more careful study, however, is to be made of the data obtained, and of additional matter, and a new paper prepared. Combined with this will be a paper on several new points of importance in the physical geography of the region. Mr. Nelson traveled extensively filloustering operations to keep any man from a seat, even though he thought he was not entitled to it, but so long as the truth was not admitted in evidence, he was sure that the people would sustain the democratic par-ty in resisting to the last extremity any effort to strike down the right to free representation. [Applause on the democratic side.] Mr. Calkins then reviewed briefly the evidence in the case, and read affidavits in explanation and denial of that filed by C. Smith, and his presentation of the facts on which the mapresentation of the facts on which the ma-jority of the committee relied elicited several rounds of applause from his party friends. In conclusion he said: "It is said that the demo-cratic party is justified in its filibustering be-cause some testimony is questioned. If the democratic party can stand on such a footing we can afford to stand on the great constitutional right (which for 93 years has never before been 93 years has never before been questioned) of determining by a majority vote of this house who is entitled to a seat in this chamber. The matter was dropped and toms, the vocabularies, and his collection of photographs are very interesting and important, and General Hazen proposes, if congress can be induced to make the necessary appropriation, to publish a series of valuable papers on the discoveries, for which Mr. Nelson is now preparing the manuscript. The papers will form a very important contribution to ethnology, and will add an interesting chapter to the history of North American aborigines.

Mr. Nelson has about 3.500 ornithological specimens, with full notes and sketches of little known water fowls. This material will be used as a basis for an elaborate contribution to the history of arctic and sub-arctic birds, which will describe all the species known to Alaska. It is proposed to accompany this Mr. Calkins called up the contested election case. Filibustering again began, votes on dilatory motions and to adjourn, showing three less than a quorum, excepting on mo-tions to adjourn, which were voted down. During the roll call on a dilatory notion.Mr. Walker, of Pennsylvania, who was standing in the rear of the members seats, fell in a fainting fit and was laid upon one of the sofas. Walker soon recovered, however, sufficiently to vote. Matters then remained in statu quo for about an hour and a half. The sergeant at arms was not dispatched after absent members, and those present killed time as well as they were able in conversation and reading until 5 o'clock, when Mr. Calkins, stating which will describe all the species known to Alaska. It is proposed to accompany this work with beautiful illustrations, which will add materially to its value. This part of the work is very nearly completed. The manuscript of the ornothology will be ready for the pressearly in June. Another part of the work will consist of a detailed account of the mammals of the territory, with special reference to their that he would call up the election to-morrow and advising the members to bring five days rations with them, moved to adjourn. A STRANGE STORY. Death of One of the Parties.

Special to St. Louis Republican.
INDIANAPOLIS, May 22.—The most singularly romantic story for a decade past was made public to-night in the reported snicide of Henry Hilgenmeyer, a boy of seventeen, and the attempted self-destruction of Miss Ella Winning, two years his senior. Yesterday they attended a German picnic, and towards evening drove off together in a southerly dievening drove off together in a southerly di-rection. This morning the horse and buggy were found at Whiteland, eighteen miles distant, and it was surmised that the romanti idiots had boarded the first train with the view of elopement. About noon to-day the mother of the girl received a letter written by Hilgenmeyer intimating that he contemplated defict had arisen in consequence of the increased clerical force having facilitated the work of the department beyond the amount estimated for in the original $50,000,000 estimate for the year. Shortly before dusk, this evening, her daughter returned home, and her personal appearance indicated that she had been undergoing severe experience of some sort. In an inco herent manner she told her people that she had attempted suicide with laudanum, and the rebel iron clad Merimac in March, 1892. The amount of appropriations is stated at the actual value of the Merimac at the date of the action as not exceeding $200,000. Passed —yeas, 24, nays 23.

denic drove to the neighborhood of Greenwood, twelve miles distant, and when night came they spread the carriage robe in a fe corner, bade each other an eternal farew corner, bade each other an eternal farewell, divided the drug equally, swallowed their respective portions and went to sleep. Several hours later they awoke, mutually surprised to find each other alive, and both were disappointed over the result. When morning came they walked to Greenwood, three miles distant and purchased a double portion of laudanum. Then returning to the woods there was another farewell and re-attempt at suicide. The drug nauseated her and failed to take effect. With Hilgenmeyer it worked differently, and after the remark, "Kiss me good-by, darling," he expired with his head resting upon her lap. After, his death she composed his limbs. Then she had an indis-tinct recollection of a wild desire to return home. She started on foot, reaching here as

Messengers were immediately dispatched to find the body of Hilgenmeyer, but at a late hour no report had been received.

The news of this peculiar affair quickly spread throughout the city and created a profound sensation. Hilgenmeyer comes of a good German family. The other party is a daughter of a widow and but little known. daughter of a widow and but httle known. Their acquaintance began about three months ago and speedily ripened into an attachment. Hilzenmeyer's friends report that his people opposed the union, and for this reason he has several times of late threatened suicide.

There is another version to the effect that he wanted to rid himself of the girl, but was foiled by her. Still again that another dam-sel had "him on the string," and was begin-ning to make life a burden. Some few scout the whole story as told by the girl, and dis-believe the ass_rtion that she attempted suicide the second time. On the contrary, finding that he had made a fool of himself, they believe he left the country leaving the girl to get home the best she could.

JUMBO'S JAM.

160 Almost Mashes His Keeper Into a Jelly-How it NEW YORK, May 23. -At the exhibition of Barnum's circus yesterday at Jersey City jumbo, with his trunk chained, found some difficulty in working the crowd for the at-tractive bun. Jumbo was in his car the other day on a side-track, waiting a freight train to pass, wher the whistle of an engine startled him so much that he whisked his small person around like a feather, and peo-ple near thought that an earthquake had occurred. Previous to Jumbo's flank move-ment Scott, his keeper, was standing by him. After the movement Scott had disappeared.
A careful search by an eagle-eyed assistant revealed the fact that Scot had come in contact with the elephant, and that there was just about enough of him left to be swept up. Another elephant-tamer went in and rescued Scott, who had been jammed against the side of the car. Cuticle and cutis yera from his cheek, shoulder, side, hip, and leg marked the spot where Jumbo tried to make a wafer of his keeper. Scott was around the next day, but yesterday he felt so bad that he was sent on to a hotel in Brooklyn, where he will remain until he re-covers. The physician who examined him thought there was no serious injury, but that he was well shaken up as to his interior. Since Scott's absence Jumbo has been chained. A heavy chain around his body was connected with another around the upper part of his trunk, so that he cannot use that nstrument with as much freedom as he would like. "Jumbo did not burt his keeper with malice prepense," Mr. Hutchinson told a re-porter last night in Jersey City; "but he was frightened by the passing train, and in swing-ing around collided with Scott."

RAIDS BY YANKTONIA INDIANS.

St Paul, Minn., May 23.—Dispatches from Miles City give the details of the trouble with the Yanktonias that caused General Terry to order troops to Montana. Frank Emmett, of Miles City, is a buffalo hunter, and he had a camp on Elk Prairie, where he left two skinners and the stock of the outfit, while he returned to Miles City for supplies. Upon his return he found the camp deserted and fresh Indian signs. Following the trail of his missing Indian signs. Following the trail of his missing stock, he struck a band of Indians, from whom he asceriained that his men had been taken prisoners, and his stock run off by the hos-tiles. He appealed to the band from whom he gleaned this information for protection, but was taken prisoner, dismounted and dis-armed. Finally, however, he escaped from his captors and walked to Glendive he returned to Miles City by rail, where he now is. In the meantime he ascertained that his stock was found among the Yanktonias at poplar river, but being required to prove his property, he is now in Miles City looking up testimony on which he hopes to secure the recovery of his stock and the punishment of the thieves who ran them off from his camp.

About the time of this depredation a party of ranchmen on Little Horse prairie, near the Vellowstone, observed what appeared to be Yellowstone, observed what appeared to be some animated bunches of hay. Upon closer inspection they discovered them to be dis-guised Indians. They opened fire without furher ceremony, and one of the objects ceased to be animated, while the others ambled off through the sage brush. Upon investigation through the sage brush. Upon investigation they found that they had reduced the Yanktonias by one. Two Cases of Conjuring.

From the Americus, Ga., Republican.

An old negro woman was made happy on last Thursday as she was passing in front of the Ruby bar where several gentlemen were sitting. Just as she got in front of them a large red headed scorpion dropped from some part of her clothing, and, it is said, Si Hawkins killed it. The 'old woman raised her hand exclaiming: "Bress de good Lord; P'se glad of dat. Dat sing has been boddering me in de leg for de las' fo' yers, and now its ded." In reply to some question she said she had been conjured and a scorpion put in her leg. It is thought that the thing scented the good liquor in the Ruby, and came out to get a drink, or the old woman might never have been relieved of its crawling around in her leg.

lower part of the city was thrown into a state of excitement by a negro woman in the employ of Mrs. Coleman, on Oglethorpe street, who claimed to have been conjured. The woman, Kate Morrison, was in a terrible state of nervous excitement, with occasional convulsions, and, in the intervals of quietude, gave the following account of her trouble: A few days ago she said that she had a fight with a woman named Jane Patty in which the a woman named Jane Petty, in which the latter came out second best. Jane, to avenge herself, had employed an Indian doctor named Charlie to conjure her. To accomplish his to conjure her. To accomplish his work, Katie says Charlie called on devilish work, Katie says Charlie caned the her and, by some mystic mumbling, put a spell on her. He then gave her a charm which he bade her hold in her hand a few minutes he bade her smell of it. As soon as and then made her smell of it. As soon as she put it to her nose she dropped into a trance, that for a time she was powerless to loosen her grip on the charm, but after C barlie left she threw it in the yard, where it lay till picked up by a policeman, though fifty negroes had assembled, all of whom gave the charm a wide berth. All efforts to quiet the woman were in vain. At the instigation of one of the negroes, Officers Burrus and Mc-Daniel arrested Charlie, the conjurer, and carried him to the victim of his black art. the denied conjuring her, and claimed that he had only given her a luck charm. He took the charm, which consisted of three folds of red flannel, in which was neatly wrapped a piece of green root of some kind, and in the presence of the sufferer unfolded it and biting off a piece of the prost, chewed it up, which off a piece of the root, chewed it up, which action at once removed the spell."

We had rather tolerate one of our boys in violating the holy Sabbath day than to see him guilty of robbing birds' nests. Boys are getting so impertinent in this bad practice that they actually, armed with ladders, intrude upon their neighbors' yards in their absence and rob birds' nests, complaints of which have been made to us, coupled with the request to write an article condemning the same. The truth is, parents these days care very little about such things, and in this, as a great many other-things, suffer their little children to do just as they please. Well, all we have to say is, that when too late they will reap a rich harvest of regret for such indifference. ow he Improves Each Saining Hour-His Ways and His Manners-An Industry Which Our People Should Cultivate - The Suc-cess of a Monroe County Man.

Having had the evidence of three sensessight, hearing and taste-that Mr. F. N. Wilder is engaged in the honey business, and knowing that bee culture is a most interesting business, and albeit one little understood and little thought of by people generally, we sought an interview with Mr. Wilder. He s enthusiastically devoted to the business, and so is everyone we ever knew who has given much attention to it.

"I want to see your apiary," said the Advertiser editor. "And I want you to tell me something about bees, their habits and how they make honey. Will you do it!"

"Certainly. You know we raise bees and honey in the same hive. Here is one of the hives—a 'Simplicity' hive with what are known as the Langstroth frames. When the bees are ready to hive, I induce them to go in. They fill these frames, as you see, with their honey and their brood. I do not get my honey yield from these frames. Around the edges and ends of the inside of these frames—there are ten in a hive frames. Around the edges and ends of the inside of these frames—there are ten in a hive—they make honey, while the central, and by far the larger part, is used for laying the eggs and rearing the brood. I have an upper story to gather honey from, which I will show you directly. I cover the top of this lower story of the hive, so that they cannot ascend to the other, and watch them until it is filled with the breed and the subsistence honey. This the brood and the subsistence honey. This takes them usually about a week or ten days, if the honey flow is good. Then when this work is done, I remove the covering which keeps the little workers in the lower story, and give them access to the other. "This upper story, as you see, will hold twenty-eight little square frames, which I can twenty-eight fittle square frames, which I can remove and replace, with perfect case, at any time. These frames are made just exactly the right size to hold a pound of honey each. The sides of this upper part of the hive, you see, are made of glass, so that I can watch what is going on within. When the outside boxes, or frames, are filled, I know the others are for the bees always work from the middle. are, for the bees always work from the middle of the hive outward. Then I slip out one side of this top part of the hive, brush the bees off gently with a feather, and remove the frames of honey. I put new frames into the hive, and the work goes on."

"How often can you rob them?"

"How often can you rob them?"
"I am doing it now with the extractor once a week, though the box honey requires two weeks. But so far, this has been an exceptionally good year. The bees began their spring work with more honey than I ever knew before, the past winter being so mild that they did not consume all the honey I left with them for a winter supply." with them for a winter supply."

"How much is that?"
"When the first frost comes in the fall, you know the flowers are killed and the bees must know the flowers are killed and the bees must stop gathering and lay themselves away for the winter. I at once go with scales and weigh each hive. If the hive, bees and all weigh more than forty pounds, I take out the surplus honey; if less, I add enough to make the total weight forty, and then leave them for the winter. They will not need more than that. The past winter being mild, they did not experime that hence as I said, they did not consume that, hence, as I said, they started with more. Another good feature about the present season is that the spring opened so soon and has been so favorable to the growth of flowers, that they have made honey with more ease than usual nence I am gathering rather more honey than n an average season."

A HUNDRED POUNDS A HIVE.

"How long do they work in a year, and how much will an average hive raise?"

"I don't have average hives. I keep mine up to the standard of first-class. An average yield for a hive, in a year, however, would be about a hundred pounds; though with proper management they can be made to yield much more than that, unless drought or something cuts off the flowers. They begin storing honey about the time our fruit trees blossom, Clover lasts them until the cotton blossoms come, and from these a great deal of the honey is made. The weed known as golden ord is a favorite with them, and it makes the brightest honey of all. Extracted from the comb, it is absolutely beautiful. The cotton bloom, however, makes—according to my taste—the best honey, and it is in the greatest demand in the market. It has a suspicion of acid in the taste, which makes it a favorite with purchasers generally, although it is not as light-colored as some other kinds. H. K. & B. F. "Whew!"

"Fact. Every hive contains from forty to sixty thousand bees, and as the working bees live only about six weeks in the working season, you may imagine that the mother of them all must get about right lively to keep up a supply. Her natural life is three or four years; but I kill mine after they become three years old, as they are then worthless."

discover that there is no queen among them they become possessed of a desire to create one. They enlarge and lengthen a cell until it is an inch or so long and large in proportion, and raise one in that. So far as is known the queen is hatched from the same kind of egg as the ordinary worker; but the cell is enlarged and it is supposed that the food and treatment given to the young one must be different from those given to ordinary bees. So eager are the workers to have a queen, that they generally raise several in a hive. I have taken as many as twenty out of a single hive. I never leave but one in a hive, but take the others out and put them into new hives."

"Is there any difference, besides the color between the Italian and the black bee?"
"Yes; there is one important difference. The Italian bee has a much longer tongue than the black, and hence can get at honey from flowers that the black cannot reach. For instance, red clover is useless to a black. For instance, red clover is useless to a black bee, but it is a rich pastureage for the Ital-

"Did you ever see a kind of bees so averse to stinging that they can even be placed in a person's mouth without stinging him?"
"No, but I have heard of them. I don't like that sort, however. I want bees that will sting when necessary. It is often important that bees should defend their hives from robbers, and I don't want mine to be too tame. But come out into my apiary, and see them at work."

we went; but first we inspected a hive with a swarm at work in it, in Mr. Wilder's house. Actually in his house, right by the head of Mr. Early Wilder's bed. The opening of the hive is at a window, and the window-sash is raised a little so that the bees enter the hive from outdoors through a crack in the window. from out-doors, through a crack in the win dow. The crack is so arranged, however, that the bees cannot get into the room.

The apiary has forty hives in it, arranged in rows. Beside each hive, Mr. Wilder has planted a grape-vine to shade the hives; and we suppose that the bees may get some honey from the grapes.

Let it be understood that Mr. Wilder's bees make honey in two ways. One is to have it made in little square frames or boxes—an even pound to the box; and the other is in larger frames—or sections as they are called about 14 by 12 inches. The honey in the small boxes is sold in the comb, just as it is made, and that in the sections is extracted The latter process is very interesting. The top of the hive is taken off and the sections examined to see if they are full. When found to they are taken out two at a time, carried to the little house built for the purpose, where the extractor is, the caps of the comb are very carefully cut off, the sectious are put into the extractor and whirled round and round till the honey is all thrown out by centifrugal force. It runs down and gathers on the bottom of the extractor, from whence it is drawn through a faucet.

We saw the honey extracted from two sections, and it made five or six pounds, and there were twelve more sections in the same hive. At the same rate this hive would have made—and doubtless it panned out that way —thirty five or forty pounds of beautiful strained honey; and this was only a week's work of that hive. "What is the difference," we asked, "between your honey and the dark-looking, bad-flav-ored honey made in the old fashioned way?" "One difference is that mine sells readily at wenty cents a pound, while the other brings bout twelve and a half. But you mean what makes the difference in quality. Well, simply because of the kind of hive I use. simply because of the kind of hive I doe. In the old style of hive the honey and the brood and the bee-bread are frequently so mixed that they can't well be separated. And even when the bees in the common hives deposit when the bees in the common lives deposit their honey above the brood it is all in the same apartment; and the heat of a swarm at work, together with the pollen and the young bees, impregnates the honey with the bad flavor you speak of. In the 'Simplicity' hive, on the other hand, the bees place their brood and the bee bread, and when I find that this is done. I lift off the top of I find that this is done, I lift off the top of the hive, and add another story to it, in which is made all the honey that I take out. Thus, you see, the honey which I take out for use is made in a different apartment altogether from the brood and the bitter pollen which constitutes bee-bread. Another advantage is that the honey can be removed from the 'Simplicity' hive every few days, and so it doesn't have time to become infected with the odor of bees, as honey does which remains for weeks or longer in the hive.'

At a fishing in Sumter county, Fla , last week over three hundred pounds of trout were caught. There have been 3,229 barrels and crates of vegetables shipped this season from Tallahassee, Fla. The amount of money that passed through the pool boxes during the races at Lexington was $150,000.

But I have a plant which beats anything I ever saw. It is called the spider plant, and it furnishes more honey than anything, although it doesn't open till about sunset, and remains open only an hour or so in the morning. But you can almost take the honey out with a spoon."

SCROFULA

After having been troubled for seven months with Scrofula in the form of ulcors covering nearly the entire surface of both legs, and having tried the usual remedies with no relief, resorted to SSS, and am now glad to say that six bottles taken in about two months has effectually cured me.

A. S. LENFESTY, 45 Decatur St.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 18, 1882.

I have suffered from Scrofula 17 years. The disease being mostly confined to my levs and ankles, my shin bones were covered with large Ulcers and one mass of rotten firsh, and the odor almost unberrable. All remedies and treatments failed. At last I began taking S S S, continuing for about four months under the supervision of a physician. Previously to taking S S S I at times could scarcely walk about. Now I can walk all day, and I have to thank S, E, S, and it only for my cure.

Some thirty years ago there lived in Montgomery, Ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted with Scrofula. After being treated for a long time by medical profession of this town, with no beneficial results, he commenced taking SSS. After persisently taking it for two months he was cured. Being acquainted, and in constant intercourse with him for twenty years thereafter, I can testify that the disease never made its return.

CAPTAIN DRISKO'S GHOST STORY. How the Good Ship Harry Booth, of New York, was Saved from Wreek.

From the Boston Traveller, May 18, At a meeting of religious reformers held in the house of Mr. William H. Banks, East Boston, a few evenings since, Captain C. P. Drisko, who is well known as an able and experienced shipmaster, spoke in substance, as follows:

"In the winter of 1865 I commanded the whip Harry Booth bound from New York fee

The the winter of 1803 I commanded the ship Harry Booth, bound from New York for Dry Tortugas, with a cargo of government stores and 200 mechanics and laborers to be employed on the fortifications in the course of construction. When the ship reached the vicinity of Abaco the wind blew a fierce norther, with heavy rain; the sun had gone down and the weather soon became outled. down, and the weather soon became quite dark. To haul off was impossible, the wind blew too fresh to carry sail, and the only rational course left was to incur the risk of blew too fresh to carry sail, and the only rational course left was to incur the risk of crossing the Bahama banks. The ship drew fourteen feet, and I could not expect that there was much more than fifteen feet of water on some parts of the banks. A foot is very little to spare under a ship's keel; but I resolved to take the chance, and accordingly squared away, that is, put the ship before the wind, and took my departure from Berry island. Having seen everything in order on deck, I left the chief mate, Mr. Peterson, a careful and trustworthy officer, in charge, and went below for a little rest. At 10:50 o'clock I heard a voice, clear and distinct, say: 'Go on deck and anchor!' 'Who are you?' I demanded, and sprang on deck, for I was not a man to hear a work the speaker said, who hurrahed the most. and sprang on deck, for I was not a man to take orders from any one. I found the ship going along her true course, and everything as I could wish. I questioned Mr. Peterson if as I could wish. I questioned Mr. Peterson if he had seen any person enter the cabin, but neither he nor the man at the wheel had either seen or heard any one. Thinking it may have been hallucination, I went below again; about 11:50 a man with a gray great coat and slouched hat entered the cabin, and, looking me straight in the face, commanded me to go on deck and anchor. He left the cabin deliberately. I heard his heavy tread as he passed before me. Once more I sprang on deck and found the ship all right. Sure of my course, I was not disposed even with this on deck and found the ship all right. Sure of my course, I was not disposed even with this second warning to obey any man or anything else, no matter what appearance it might put on. Again I went below, but not to sleep, for I had everything on ready for a spring on deck. At 12:50 a.m. the same man entered the cabin, and more imperiously than before said. 'Go on deck and anchor!' man entered the cabin, and more imperiously than before said: 'Go on deck and anchor!' I recognized at a glance that the speaker was my old friend, Captain John Barton, with whom I had sailed when a boy, and who treated me with great kindness. I sprang on deck, rounded the ship to, and anchored her with 50 fathoms of chain. All hands were called and the sails furled. Shortly afterward I felt the ship touch, but neither the mate nor any one else noticed it. A few minutes later, however, all hands felt it. I threw the lead first from one side then from threw the lead first from one side then from the other, and found 5 fathoms (30 feet) of water. I was perplexed, and asked myself what it could mean, when the same voice sang out, Throw the lead over the stern? I did so, and to my dismay found only 13½ feet. (The ship drew 14 feet.) I immediately feet. (The ship drew 14 feet.) Himmediately set the mizzen topsail and spanker and backed her clear of the reef, against which she sheered every time she brought a strain upon her chain. The danger was past; the ship rode clear of the reef, and sustained but little damage where she struck. A ship which spoke me in the early part of the evening, and whose captain was not familiar with the Bahamas, said that he would follow me, and for this purpose I hung a light over my stern. Watching my movements closely, he rounded to almost as soon as I did, and thereby saved his vessel. No doubt the norther had shallowed the water on the banks, and if we had continued in our course we both might have been water on the banks, and if we had continued in our course we both might have been wrecked. Will those who assume that the spirits of our departed friends do not take an interest in us please explain? What I have stated is true. It was the spirit of a departed friend, Captain John Barton, well known as one of the best shipmasters in the country. He commanded among others the ships Talleyrand and Superior, and was esteemed by all who ever knew him. My voyage in the Harry Booth was entirely successful."

ATALE OF TWO SHIPS.

A Wager of $1,000 Lost by a Six Hours' Delay.

From the San Fracisco Chronicle. The American ship Mariposa, owned by her master, E. S. Manson, and Millen Griffith, The American ship Mariposa, owned by her master, E. S. Manson, and Millen Griffith, Jr., sailed from Liverpool on the 9th of January, side by side with the British ship, Thomas Stephens. Each was loaded alike and bound for this port. This circumstance prompted the captains to make a wager of $1,000, Manson claiming that he would arrive at this port, discharge, take or another cargo, and dip his ensign to the Thomas Stevens before she crossed the imaginary line of the Golden Gate. The American arrived here about eleven days ago, and, by strenuous efforts, did discharge and load within a week. Determined upon winning both gold and glory, no expense was spared, and seamen were offered $250 for the run back to Liverpool, and were given checks for this amount in advance. Last Sunday night the Mariposa procured her complement of sixteen men, besides her officers. Everything was ready for departure. The Britisher was still upon the blue and vastly deep, and all was joy and good-nature on the Mariposa. But as the sun rose yesterday morning the tired lookout of the Mariposa sat with his eye toward the gate. Slowly there came a sail, and as it neared and entered the harbor the telescope of the lookout discerned the Thomas Stevens. "My —, captain; the Stevens!" he cried, and fainted in the cook's arms. It was too true. There she was, coming in with everything set, and her nose away under the was too true. There she was, coming in with everything set, and her nose away under the water. At 11:30, at least six hours after the water. At 11:00, acreast six hours after he arrival of the Stevens, the Mariposa wended her way out into the cold ocean, bearing out with her a man who was foaming at the mouth and $1,000 poorer in cash.

The signal service bureau report indicates for Georgia to-day, warmer, fair weather, winds mostly easterly, stationary barometer MR. Speen, who has heretofore voted with the national-bank people, dodged the final vote on the bill to extend the charters. He neither voted nor was paired. A DISPATCH from Dr. Herrick Johnson, mod-was received as it should have been. Sixty-six million dollars for our war de partmen is said to be necessary this year. Where it goes and how it goes nobody knows, not even the house and senate which appro priate the people's money so lavishly. THERE is no specially interesting feature in the contested election cases which now oc cupy the time of the house. It is simply case of pull dog pull devil. The one party which can pull hardest and longest will win.

Nothing would please the independent colonels so much as to defeat the nomination of Mr. Stephens by the democratic convention in July. They know Mr. Stephens will not be a candidate unless he is so nominated, and they don't want a man selected who is in favor of correcting the errors of the party in rather than outside the party.

THE unsightly telegraph poles that disfigure the streets of American cities are not used in other countries, and even in this country they are doomed. Chicago and New York and Brooklyn have already taken steps to do away with the poles and the dangerous load of wires that they carry. There is no reason why the wires should not be laid under ground except the cupidity of the monopolies that

THE winner of the Derby comes again from the rank and file. Bruce having been the first favorite. Shotover, the winner, was recently beaten by a horse that Bruce easily outran last year. Shotover was, however, considered a probable winner. Quicklime held the sec ond place, and Sachem, who finished third, was not even mentioned among the prominent candidates. Mr. Lorillard's Gerald ruptured a blood vessel, and but for that it was | Editor Gorham, who has been read out of the thought that he stood an excellent chance to capture the "Blue Ribbon of the turf."

It is a pity that filibustering and political maneuvering of the cheap order are likely to prevent the passage of a national educational bill this session. Georgia has, through all her representatives, taken a deep and active part in furthering an educational bill, and it will feel the disappointment more acutely. Unless the Sherwin bill is made a special order it must pass over, and so long as the politicians can find some other topic to fight on with more campaign effect the bill for

MR, STEPHENS AND THE DEMOCRACY. A short time since THE CONSTITUTION found it necessary to talk very plainly to Mr. Stephens. It was rumored—and the rumors were reiterated-that Mr. Stephens had determined to "stand" for governor in defiance of the democratic party. We stated, without been suggested that he and his fellow inde mincing words, that unless Mr. Stephens squarely and in terms put himself on the Mr. Blaine. It is this suggestion that brings platform of the "organized" democracy, we Editor Gorham to his feet, and he as much should oppose his nomination and election as declares that if the ex-secretary fails to with all earnestness and emphasis. This we should have done, regardless of the anti-Cameron movement, he is to be the consequences. No honest demo- forthwith read out of the party and bancrat could have done less. But Mr. Stephens has declared his views on this subject and they are all that the most THE PEACH CROP AND THE RAILROADS exacting partisan could ask. He rebukes Dr. Felton and his associates by saying that all reforms should be worked within the party held in the state—that of the fruit-growers of He spurns the gratuitous and foolish nomination of the half don of the haif-dozen sore-heads who met here of the convention that meets here to-day. last week by saying that he is before the demo-

He denounces their revolt against party allegiance, by expressing proper spirit, they will build wiser than they in the strongest terms his own submission to it. He denounces their coalition with the enemy by saying pared to what the future will bring if they that party abuses should be corrected within the party ranks. Having thus antagonized the only two principles on which they stand, and putting himself at the head of the party they are pledged to destroy, he cannot be approval. It is foolish to say that the coalitionists have "dictated" the candidate of the denocracy. The democratic "primaries" will lecide who will be the party candidates. If they select Mr. Stephens, it will be Mr. Stephens-if some one else, then Mr. Stephens will be out of the race. Never before has the party been freer to act without dictation or embarrasment-for before the race has erator of the Presbyterian assembly at Springopened every candidate stands pledged to field, shows that the message from Atlanta abide by the decision of the convention.

Instead of complicating things Mr. Stephens has simplified them. Offered the nom nation of the opposition, he says in effect: "I fight only under the democratic flag. Regardless of what has happened I shall run only as the democratic candidate. If that party honors me with its standard I shall march at the head of its hosts. If it puts it in other hands, I will march in the ranks.' Under these circumstances Mr. Stephens stands before the democratic in precisely the attitude as any other candidate. This being the case, there is little doubt of his nomination. The wisest thing the party can do is to out this honored and illustrious man at the head of its columns. Wise, incorruptible, prudent, he will give to the state a glorious administration, and fully justify the enormous majority by which he will be elected.

MANLY AND CHRISTIAN RESOLUTION. We cannot find words of commendation too strong for the action of the Presbyterian asembly in passing its "fraternal resolutions" on yesterday. The resolutions in themselves are brave and candid-the spirit in which they were adopted even better.

It has been an aspersion on the gentleness and genuineness of the Christian religion that after every other broken link between the sections had been mended-after merchants, politicians, people had revived their fraternal relations-the churches of God only maintained attitudes of hostiland refused to bind *together the cords that were broken over twenty years ago. to note that the southern Presbyterians have had the courage and the courtesy to make an overture to their former brethren that is

It is not only the fact that the ward methods THE trustees of the Slater fund of $1,000,000 of Mr. Arthur's administration are not giving impartial and conservative men in every porlowing by means of a careful distribution of the federal patronage where it will do most good; these are symptoms which have accompanied every step taken and every movement made by the administration, and their manifestation has become thoroughly familiar to those who take even a casual interest in the development of political events. But there are more ominous signs in the air. Red rock ets have been sizzing through the firmament in the neighborhood of Pennsylvania, and cracking noises are heard in other sections. Under these circumstances, it is not natural that the machine should be altogether happy, and the organ of the administration and the star-route thieves has sounded a note of alarm. party by the New York Tribune upon various occasions, but who continues to lead the stalwarts and the star-routers, has sounded a note of alarm. He is not at all satisfied with the condition and complexion of affairs in Pennsylvania, where the independent movement has assumed considerable proportions. Ostensibly this movement is a protest against the Cameron bosses, but in reality it is the old fight be tween the stalwarts and the Garfield republicans, consequently Editor Gorham is afraid that he discovers traces of the fine Italian hand of Mr. Blaine, and, in a column editorial, which is a confession of weakness, he calls upon the Maine statesman to avow his position. It is not likely that Gorham's alarm will arouse Blaine, but it shows the significance of the Pennsylvania movement. Senator Mitchell has joined in the fight against the Cameron machine, and it has pendents are to have the active sympathy of come forward and deny all complicity with

BOOK WALTER VS. THE BOOM.

CINCINNATI, May 22.-Hon, John W. Bookwalter ex democratic candidate for governor, in an inter view in the Enquirer, says, in answer to question as to the business prosperity of the country: urbon newspapers of Georgia are not only kind a business man, I do not wish to be looked upon as an alarmist, and being opposed to all stock specula on. I do not wish to be looked upon as a promulgator of 'bear' sentiments; but frankness is always best in dealing with business problems, and having given much study to our financial affairs, I do not resitate to give my convictions, leaving it to time nestate to give my convictions, leaving it to time and results to vindicate my positions. In the first place, there is a popular belief, prevalent among all classes, that the prosperity of our country is the result of chance, and comes and goes in a mysterious manuer, being governed by influences which the human mind cannot discern; whereas prosperity, panies and booms are the result of laws and causes as infallible as those that govern the operations of nature."

nature."
"If this be so, what has ended the 'boom?"
"To answer this correctly, let us first inquire the causes that produced the boom. I hold as a premise that all prosperty in this country is based upon the prosperity of the agricultural classes! When the farmer prospers all branches of industry are stimulated. For six years, beginning with 1875, a series of events which may not happen again in a century, combined to produce a prosperity unexampled in the history of any nation. First came marvelous crops in this country; second, the crops in Europe failed, and third, while our farmers secured the advantage of cheap labor and material, they sold in a ready market, at the highest prices. Transportation of our cereals gave a marvelous development to railroad enterprises, so that in five years 16,000 miles, or nearly one-fifth of the railroad mileage in the "If this be so, what has ended the 'boom?"" cereals gave a marvelous development to railroad enterprises, so that in five years 16,000 miles, or nearly one-fifth of the railroad mileage in the country, has been added to our system. This wond rful development sent stock up and led to wild speculations, In addition to buying our grain. Europe invested in our stocks, which promised such rich returns. The iron business responded to the railroad development. such rich returns. The iron business responded to the railroad development: the farmer not only paid his debts with his wonderful crops, but he began to buy luxuries. This is the boom, and business swept onward in one grand tide, unmindful and ignorant of the fact that it could only be sustained while the causes existed. Now only one cause has failed to operate, and we are already suffering."

"What is that?"

failed to operate, and we are already suffering."

"What is that?"

"Europe has ceased to buy our grain because they don't need it, and because it is too high-price1. What is the result? There is no transportation, and the railroads are not earning idividends. Stocks are down and the rates of interest are up Men have already ceased to handle money to do business, because it is not safe to proceed on a money market with increasing rates."

"But won't good crops this year set the boom in motion again?"

"That question echoes the popular fallacy. How can a big crop bring prosperity unless we can find a market? Europe has already learned to buy cheaper grains in other markets. Her prospects for a good crop are as bright as ours. Who, then, is going to buy our grain? If we can't sell our crops we can't eat them, and our over-estimated industry must come to a stand-still."

"Then what becomes of that wonderful 'balance of trade' that John Sherman has claimed for five years was the sole result of his financial policy?" asked the reporter, aroused by the gentleman's fervor and sound argument, and eager for more information.

'It is already a myth, and events have proved

'It is already a myth, and events have proved John Sherman an ignorant braggart and a vaporing demagogue. I foresaw in December, owing to the price of grain, that the balance of trade would soon be against us, and predicted the export of $50,000,000 of gold this year; $30,000,000 have been shipped in four months! I saw by a head-line in the Enquiror put a day or two since that the enormous amount of $4,700,000 went out, in a single day from New York. Why, at this fearful rate, what will the drain be at the end of the year? Formerly we sent wheat. If we were sending $4,700,000 in wheat now instead of gold it would take two of the largest vessels a whole year to carry it, and give employment to our railroads to carry it to the seaboard."

"Then you don't think resumption and John tit is already a myth, and events have proved "Then you don't think resumption and John Sherman made the boom?"

"Hardly"
"Don't you think, Mr. Bookwalter, that Vanderbilt and other wealthy men who are so largely interested in stocks will sustain the market?"
"No, sir. Forty Vanderbilts cannot sustain the prices of stocks in the face of natural causes. The failure of Vanderbilt to sustain Lake Shore demonstrated this beyond a doubt. American railroad securities received a hard blow when Lake Shore tumbled eighteen points in a week. Foreign investors reasoned that if a stock belonging to the Vanderbilts could prove so unstable, what might not happen to others."

"You spoke a moment ago of the iron interest. That seems to be as prosperous as ever?"
"It may seem so to those who are not familiar with the business, but it is not so by any means. A year ago the iron manufacturers announced that they were crowded with orders for six months ahead. For a year I have been buying iron for my works by the month, and shall continue to do so. Railroad building, has almost ceased, and as a consequence one of the best and largest markets for iron supplies has closed. In the last six months large supplies of iron, in all grades, have been accumulated at the furnaces and mills because it cannot find a market."

"How long can they afford to continue the production without customers?"
The reporter, not being an expert in the iron business, answered the last question by asking another:
"Mr. Bookwalter, do you expect a panic?"

JOHN BROAD'S WILL.

lis Last Will and Testament Makes Trouble in the Camp.

One of the last things the grand jury of Fulton county did before adjourning day before yesterday vas to find true bills against Messrs, Fred Cum mings, Charles B. Blacker, Benjamin F. Thigpen and John B. Scarrett, all of this city, charging them with the offense of forgery.

These indictments had their origin in the John Broad will case. It will be remembered by the papers were searched for his next the readers of this journal that soon after Mr. Broad's death, which occurred some time in May, 1881, his papers were searched for his next that the search that the death, which occurred some time in May, 1881, his papers were searched for his will, but that that paper could not be found, and that his estate was, by the ordinary of Fulton county, placed in the hands of an administrator for a settlement, but so thoroughly satisfied were those relatives of Mr. Broad who reside in Atlanta, and among whom was Fred Cummings, that Mr. Broad had left a will that an obstruction was placed in the way of a set lement of his affairs by the administrator.

During this time Mr. Cummings, who, on account of his daily association with Mr. Broad, was generally believed to be his heir, received an anonymous letter wherein a promise was made to promouslett wherein a promise was made to pro-nings replied through the columns of This Constitution, and in a few days thereafter—some time in ctober. 1881—the will was sent to Mr. Jno. II ame, the banker, by whom, with the accompany ngletter, it was turned over to Mr. Fred Cum-

When the will was examined it was ascertained that Mr. Fred Cummings and another When the will was examined it was ascertained that Mr. Fred Cummings and another relation of Mr. Broad, residing in Atlanta, had been bequeathed the greater part of the estate, and that the other relations of the deceased, among whom were a brother, residing in Alabama, and the children of two sisters, one residing in California and the other in England, had been given comparatively little. This fact, when it became known to the relatives of the deceased outside of Atlanta, led to an organized effort on their part to prevent its terms being carried out. So when the will was offered for probate their objection was filed and although the will was probated by Judge Calhoun after a lengthy and bitter fight then began the contest which has produced the indictment. Those objecting to the brobating of the will were represented by Mr. John Conley and Colonel E. F. Hoge and alleged that the will was a forgery. This fact they attempted to establish by the evidence of Mrs. S. Mann, W. C. Peck, J. E. Hill, B. F. Moore, J. H. Nail and others. Mr. Cammings was represented by Mr. Hoke Smith, and his witnesses were Messrs, Thispen, Scarrett and Blacker, who attested the will.

The indictment contains two counts. After the usual rectinations it "accuses Fred. Cummings, Charles B. Blacker, Benjamin F. Thippen and John B. Scarrett with the oftense of forgery, for that the said Fred. Cummings, Charles B. Blacker, Benjamin F. Thippen and John B. Searrett, in the county aforesaid, on the 25th day of July, in the year of our Lord 1881, with force and arms, did falsely and fraudulently make and forger ecrtain will, purporting to be the last will and testament of one John Broad, late of said county."

porting to be the last will and testament of one John Broad, late of said county."

Then, after reciting the will which has been published in this journal, the indictment charges Messrs. Cummings and Blacker with procuring the forgery of the will, and Messrs. Scarrett and Thigpen with the forgery.

After the indictment was found warrants were issued for the five gentlemen and placed in the hands of Sheriff Perkerson for service. Mr. Fred Cummings was arrested and give bond in the sum of SS,000 as also did Mr. Scarrett, but up to a 1. te hour yesterday afternoon the other two gentlemen had not been found.

All four of the accused persons are well known in Atlanta, as also was Mr. Broad, and this fact will make their trial one of general interest.

Mr. Broad was an Englishman, and during his long residence in Atlanta accumulated the large fortune which is now in litigation.

Mr. Fred Cummings is a relative of the deceased. He was intimately associated with the deceased during his life time and ware general in the late to the first of the interest.

Mr. Fred Cummings is a relative of the deceased. He was intimately associated with the deceased during his life time and was generally believed by all who knew the relationship to be his heir.

Mr. Thigpen is a life long citizen of Fulton county, and was for years its surveyor. Mr Blacker is probably the greatest stranger of the four. He is an United States ex-deputy marshal.

Mr. Scarrett is a book keeper, and is now connected with one of Atlanta's best houses. At one time he was in the restaurant business in this city, and won quite a reputation as a caterer.

The witnesses before the grand jury were: Mrs. S. Mann, W. C. Peek, S. W. Peek, J. E. Hil, Thos. Dowd, B. F. Moore, Jno. Frey, J. H. Nall, Mary Gray, Jno. L. Couley. The attorneys think, so they say, that the state has a good case and that conviction is certain, but they

a good case and that conviction is certain, but they decline to be interviewed.

Mr. Cummings, in response to a reportorial query yesterday, said: "Yes, it is true that the grand jury found a true bill against me for being a party to the forging of the will of John Broad. Of course I know nothing of the proof which was presented before the grand jury. The same case, I mean the will case involving the same question, was investigated before Judge Lowndes Calhoun. The investigation lasted, off and on, nearly a month, and Judge Caihoun decided that the will was genuine. The only witness who really showed anything against the will was Mrs. In answer to ane "intervented".

Mann.

In answer to one interrogatory she swore: "I do not know anything about the will or the writing or the parties present at the time the paper was written." She did, however, swear that "I have seen a paper at the house of C. B. Blacker, a few months are numerically as the contract of the contrac seen a paper at the house of C. B. Blacker, a few months ago, purporting to be the will or a copy of the will of Mr. Broad; the color of said paper was different from the color of said paper was different from the color of the paper filed in the ordinary's office." She further said: "The paper was brought there by Mr. Thighen." Mrs. Mann identified that day as being Sunday when Dr. Horrigan, Tom Scott and others were at Blacker's. A number of witnesses contradicted Mrs. Mann, and the proof showed bad feeling between her and Blacker. There were experts who believed the signature to the will was not Mr. Broad's, but Mr. John H. James and others of perfect responsibility, proved that the signature was genuine.

My reason for making this statement to you is because the hearing before the grand jury was only of the witnesses of the other side. Mr. John L. Coniey, the administrator, and one side, and I believe he, too, was before the grand jury. I may be mistaken, but I believe that the only object the other side had in going before the grand jury was to produce the will before the grand jury was to produce the will before the grand jury was to produce the will before the public and to aid them in the civil suit. It is, as I understand it, a prosecution from them rather than from the grand jury. I am ready to stand my rial to-day and without introducing a single witness. I have not a doubt as to the genuineness of the will, and will press for a trial of the civil case when I am confident the will will be sustained, and the judgment of Judge Calhoun, the ordinary, affirmed. I will not go into the detail of the proof which shows that the will is all right. I only wish to prevent the decion of the grand jury from being misunderstood by the public and my civil case from being injured."

"See that gentleman standing there by the While other Baking Powders are largely adulterated with Alum and other hurtful fountain," said Mr. L. W. Scoville, of the Kimball House, last night to a Constitution representative. Looking in the direction taken by Mr. Scoville's index finger, the reporter saw a gentleman of medium size and business-like appearance standing near the fountain watering the water as it played with a small rubber ball. All this the reporter saw at a glance, and then said:

"That is Mr. James M. McCombs, of St. Louis. He has purchased Mr. J. H. Porter's interest in the Porter & Meakin iron works. He is a gentleman of means, and will make Atlanta his home."

This was news, and in an instant the reporter was face to face with Mr. McCombs, from whom he learned that Mr. Scoville's statement was correct in every particular.

A Letter From General Jubal A. Early.

On the Sist of March General Early wrote a letter relating to the Louisiana State Lottery Company, from which the following statements of interest to the general public are extracted:

"Mr. M. A. Dauphin, the president of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, resides in New Orleans, which has been his place of residence for many years; and he is universally esteemed as a gentleman of high character. For the correctness of whatever he publishes in regard to the operations of the Lottery Company I am willing to vouch. The drawings of the Lottery, semi-annual and monthly, are under the sole and exclusive control of General Beauregard and myself, the officials of the Lottery Company having nothing to do with them except to 'furnish us with the requisite materials and facilities; and we take especial care that the drawings are published precisely as they take place. In the monthly schemes all the tickets are sold and all of the prizes are necessarily drawn, so that the company has no possible inducement to make any faise statement in regard thereto.

"I may say here that there are many people who cannot understand how it is that, when they have bought five, ten, fifteen or twenty tickets, they have drawn nothing. It is only necessary to say that of those who do buy tickets, there must necessarily be a very great many who draw nothing. If there not so, no one would be fool enough to establish a lottery. Where a man, by spending ten dollars, stands a chance of drawing $100,000, $00,000, $00,000, $00,000 and various other prizes down to $10, he must not be surprised if he falls after taking many chances. It is a matter of chance or luck entirely "General Beauregard and myself have had ample opportunity to test the integrity of the Louisiasa State Lottery Company in all of its dealings, and we are willing to vouch for it, as we have done on repeated occasions. If any one can satisfy us that the company has access fraudulently in any of its dealings, we will Madison Square, New York. ATLANTA MACHINE WORKS. DISSOLUTION.

Messrs. Cullen & Newman, of Knoxville, Tenn., have sent down for the inspection of the fruit growers to-day one of Gunn's patent fruit dryers. The dryer is one of the most perfect ever invented and yet is exceedingly cheap. It is built with a view to supplying a long-felt need, namely, a machine that will do perfect drying quickly and cheaply, and which is not so expensive as to be out of the reach of small fruit growers. The dryer sent down for the inspection of the convention dries ten bushels per day or a bushel an hour. Fruit is dried perfectly in an hour. The machine at first sight resembles a small stationary engine somewhat. It is about five feet high, and is made of sheet iron. Near the bottom is a fire-box. The smoke is conducted through pipes, and after making a circuit goes out by the top. Inside the dryer are a series of wire bottomed pans, on which the fruit very quickly and in an unequaled manner. It dries all fruits, making no distinction between apples, peaches, pears, blackberries, or even potatoes, corn or other vegetables. It is a well known fact that apples and other fruits dried in evaporators are greatly superior to those dried by the old process. They selt for four or five times as much and there is no reason why every farmer and fruit grower should not take advantage of this and make more money out of their fruit. The driers are cheap. One that dries ten bushels per day costs thirty dollars and will pay for itself in ten days. A larger size which will dry twenty busnels per day sells for fifty dollars. Colonel J. S. Newman is agent for the machine, and will show it to the fruit grower sto-day. The baking powers of the machine are so perfect that a large turkey can readily be baked in it.

N. R. Fowler, a uctioneer, will sell at 5 o'clock this afternoon, on the premises, that splendid residence lot on Pryor street, near corner of Mitchell. may25-1t THE PARTNERSHIP HERETOFORE EXISTIN THE PARTNERSHIP HERETOFORE EXISTING between the undersigned, under the firm name of Porter & Meakin, is this day dissolved. EXTENDED TOWARD THE NORTH ERN PRESBYTERIANS.

of Compromise After a Day of Battle— Turn Given to the Movement by Dr. itser, Which Results in the Sending of a Message of Peace to Springfield.

"Oh, for a closer walk with God, A calm and heavenly frame, A light to shine upon the road That leads me to the Lamb

What peaceful hours I once enjoyed. How sweet their memory still, But they have left an aching void The world can never fill."

As the words of the above closing hymn fille the building with their cadence, they seemed to find a lodgment in the hearts of all present. There was much caucusing along in the aisles, in the vestibule and on the church steps from which it was evident that a wement of some sign'ficance was on hand. "It will never do," said one prominent gentleman, "to accuse the northern church of the sole want of charity because of the intemthe sole want of charity because of the intemthe sole want of charity because of the intemNo. 21—Relative to Campbellite baptism. perate expressions of some of its assemblies. Why, here," said he, taking up a little book and reading, "is-an arraignment of the northern church, made by the southern assemblies in 1870, which rivals anything the north said of us. It says that 'in the providence of God the souththe providence of God the southern church has been made the special witness for the crown and kingdom of our Lord, when both were practically disowned, and that upon this issue she was separated from her old associations. Could we do more than declare that the northern church had "disowned" God? Again this idea is empha sized in the same document as follows: "We can hold no official correspondence with the northern church unless the Savior is reinstated in the full acknowledgement of his king." northern church unless the Savior is reinstated in the full acknowledgement of his kingship in his own church.' Further than this it went on to arraign them as 'giving shelter to every creed, lying between the extremes of Arminianism and Pelagianism on the one hand, and of Antinomianism and Fatalism on the other. There is much to forgive, and we should do right, whether others should do so not." This last sentiment was assented to should do right, whether others should do so or not." This last sentiment was assented to by the group surrounding, and when the house was called to prayer by Rev. J. A. Wallace, it was pretty well understood that important developments were in store. The services began with the 313th hymn, prayer by Rev. D. O. Byers, the 320th hymn, prayer, and the 317th hymn, The minutes were read and approved. Rev. J. Henry Smith and Rev. Mr. Witherspoon were announced as fraternal delegates to the Reformed Dutch assembly, which convenes at Schenectady, raternal delegates to the Reformed Duch assembly, which convenes at Schenectady, New York, next Tuesday. Bishop Stevens, of the Reformed Episcopal church, was present-ed as a fraternal delegate from that body, and 11 o'clock to-day was made a special order to been bird.

ALONG THE SKIRMISH LINE.

Dr. Pitzer arose to a question of privilege in which the highest interests of the church were concerned. For two days a heated dis-cussion has been in progress. I believe, how-ever, that the spirit of God has been leading us to a conclusion. The only thing in the way of fraternal relations is the existence of mutual imputations upon Christian character. If these were withdrawn the path to peace would be clear. The paper offered by Colonel Collier on yesterday went to the heart of the matter. If the northern assembly be willing to make amends, so should we.

Dr. Hopkins asked for a specification of any charges imputed to southern lips. Dr. Pitzer, as a question of privilege, asked the house to pass a resolution stating upon a mutual withdrawal of charges fraternal rela-tions might be established, and that the northern assembly be notified of this fact.

Dr. Brown rejoiced that such a paper should have come from such a source; in fact he was preparing a similar one himself; but he opposed the motion as a question of privi-

Dr. Lefevre raised the point of order, in which he was sustained by Dr. Hopkins, that this resolution touched the essence of the

The moderator ruled that Dr. Pitzer's resolution was in order as a question of privi-

Dr. Lefevre again arose to a point of order, to the effect that the entire question in all its scope was out of order. A previous assembly had decided to conduct its foreign correspondence by letter, instead of by delegation, the only exception being in favor of the Dutch Reformed church. This phase of the Dutch Reformed church. This phase of the question was debated at some length, and for a time it looked as if the whole matter might be shelved. Dr. Pitzer renewed his motion for the postponement of the regular order, in order that this resolution might be considered. He was satisfied that if the matter could be gotten before the house, it would rally to its support the entire membership. Dr. Hopkins hoped it would be defeated.

At this juncture Dr. Brown, usually regarded as the staunchest opponent of fraternal relations under all plans heretofore proposed, said he was in the act of writing out a similar resolution when that of Dr. Pitzer was read. He moved that the matter, under its new aspect, be referred to the committee on foreign correspondence, and that for the purpose of considering this question that the committee be increased by five members. Mr. Roger Martin asked that the entire question be re-committed. He was opposed, in toto, to fracommitted. He was opposed, in toto, to fraternal relations in any shape. Where no offense has been comittmed, no apology is necessary. These resolutions before us are all in the nature of apologies. There should be no haste in deciding a matter of importance. Let us ventilate this subject if it takes a month. Numerous calls were made on the chair for the regular order, but the moderator steadily valid that the question of postponement was ruled that the question of postponement was enutied to precedence. Dr. Palmer and Dr. Kerr coffored resolutions looking in the same direction as that of Dr. Pitzer. Mr. Martin called for a vote on the question to recommit, which was sustained, and the committee were again in the possession of the subject. The moderator announced as the five new members of the committee: Dr. A. W. Pitzer, Rev. J. H. Wiggins. Rev. R. P. Kerr, Dr. E. P. Palmer, Colonel C. F. Collier. The question then went over, awaiting the committee's report.

BILLS AND OVERTURES. Dr. Farris announced that the committee on bills and overtures were ready to make a final report. It was read by Dr. Pitzer, as fol-

Answer—The organization known as the Campbellite or Christian church professes to receive the Scriptures as the Word of God, but has no authoritative exposition thereof, but has no authoritative exposition thereof, or confession of faith; further, as each church is absolutely independent of all the other churches, the greatest variety of doctrine must of necessity prevail. It seems difficult, therefore, to deal with the denomination as a unit or organized whole, difficult to affirm or deny anything as true or false of the whole body. To affirm that no ministers of that denomination ever administers Christian baptism is a proposition that this assembly is not prepared to accent ministers Christian baptism is a proposition that this assembly is not prepared to accept, and the decision of the question of how far the certificates and sacraments of the churches of that denomination are to be recognized and received, must be left to the sessions and presbytery immediately interested in the subject.

Rev. J. M. Rose—I ask, etc. Mr. Rose went on to explain that his objection to the consideration of all the reports was due to the fact that he wanted to reach the Park case, in which the presbytery of Memphis were so deeply interested.

A motion for a recess until 3 p. m. was voted down. The judicial committee reported that it had concluded its labors and was discharged. Dr. Kerr was relieved from service on the Turner case. The records of the synods of Mississippi, South Georgia and Florida, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia were approved.

Carolina and Georgia were approved.

THE PARK CALE,
after much parliamentary maneuvering, was called up. The question at issue is as follows:
The southern Presbyterian church, from the time when it became a separate organization, has taken a deep interest in the welfare of the colored people. Taught by experience, they have at different times modified their meth-has taken a deep interest in the welfare of the colored people. Taught by experience, they have at different times modified their methods of procedure. The constitution of the church requires a high degree of education in her ministry, including Latin, Greek and Hebrew, except in extraordinary cases. Out of desire to help the colored people, the presbytery of Memphis ordained Rev. Samuel Park, an uneducated but excellent colored man, a former slave, to preach to the people of his race. The presbytery claims that under authority of the assembly they could ordain him to preach to the colored people without giving him a right to vote in the white presbytery, which had ordained him. He was treated as a presbyter for seven years, when in a question of great importance the issue was made as to Mr. Park's right to vote, overruled the decision of the moderator. The minority of the presbytery complained to the synod of Memphis, which reversed the decision of the presbytery complained to the synod of this assembly against the decision of the synod. This orings up the constitutional question, can the Presbyterian church ordain a minister without giving him the right to presbytery. The presbytery then complained to this assembly against the decision of the synod. This brings up the constitutional question, can the Presbyterian church ordain question, can the Presoyterian church ordain a minister without giving him the right to vote in presbytery? It is a constitutional question, and this is a test case, which will determine the future course of the church in respect to this matter. Rev. Mr. Rose, pastor of Second church, Memphis, represents the presbytery, and Rev. Dr. Craig of Holly Springs, Miss., was appointed to defend the synder.

After awhile the moderator announced that the assembly might as well kill time this way as any other, until the committee on foreign correspondence was ready to report, which would be in a short time. On the appearance of Dr. Brown, the chairman of that committee, it was agreed to make the Park case the

He said he felt honored that he was entrusted with the presentation of this report. It was unanimous, but was not reached without much close debate, yet without acrimony. While there were differences, an undercurrent for unity existed. There was a spontaneous movement that the spectacle of a divided church should not be exhibited. He then read the report, which was received in protond vilence as follows:

The committee on foreign correspondence report to the general assembly that four overtures have been placed in their hands, viz: From the presby-tery of Abingdon, Atlanta, Holston, South Alabama and Maryland. Alson resolution offered by Kev. A. W. Pitzer, D. D. The object of all these overtures, W. Pitzer, D.D. The object of all these overtures, with some slight differences in their forms of expression, is the same. They desire and respectfully request this general assembly to establish fully and formally what are called "fraternal relations" with the general assembly of the rresby terian church in the United States of America by sending forthwith a delegate or delegates to that body now in session at Springfield, Ill. The resolution referred to propose a iso that such delegation shall convey an expression of our "willingness to co-operate with that body, as far as may be practicable in the work of home and foreign evangelization." In order to remove all difficulties in the way of that full and formal fraternal correspodence for which, on our part, we are so earnestly desirous, we adopt the following minute:

That while receding from no principle, we do hereby declare our regret for, and withdrawal of all expressions of our assembly which may be regarded as reflecting upon, or offensive to, the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America.

Resolved That a copy of this paper be sent by telegraph to the general assemby, now in session at Springfield, llinois, for their prayerful consideration, and, mutatis mutandis, for their reciprocal concurrence as affording a basis for the exchange of delegates forthwith.

Dr. Alexander moved the adoption of the report. This was seconded by Dr. Arbuth-nott. A unanimous assent was invoked. Rev. Roger Martin said he was not in favor of fraternal relations. There was no personal feeling in it but it was a pure matter of principle. "It is my deliberate judgment that it is not desirable that we should enter into any steps of co-operation with the northern church. I love no northern brethren. I could fraternize, but I am convinced that the life of the southern church depends upon its isolation. Fraternal relations will result in the absorption of the south by the north. I have no remnant of the war feeling. I feel as warm toward the north as toward the south, but God has called us to a position of isolation."

THE ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH MATTER. Another Member Tells a Different Story of the In-

Yesterday a Constitution reporter met a leading member of St. Philip's church and asked him what he thought of the fairness of the interview published yesterday in reference to the matter. He said:
"It was all wrong. Your informant stated many inaccuracies. Among others he says the bishop offered to encumber the new church and the ground on which it stands for an amount sufficient to prepare the bishop for occupation. The bishop never made such an offer, nor was such an offer ever asked. The facts are, the bishop did offer to encumber the building with an amount entirely insufficient for the purposes indicated, and accompanied the proposition with such restrictions as, in the judgment of the vestry, would have made his offer totally unavailable. judgment of the vestry, would judgment of the vestry, would made his offer totally unavailable. Again your informant states that the vestry proposed to issue bonds to the amount of $10,000, secured by a lien on the entire property. The facts are, the finance committee of the new church were instructed to have bonds to the amount of $10,000 prepared, but were instructed at the same time to negotiate only $7,000 of the bonds. Your informatiate only $7,000 of t ant also states that the court held that the lot on which the new church stands belongs to the diocese, and that the title to that lot vested in the corporation of the diocese, &c. The court made no such decision, that question not being before it. The only question that the court decided was to positively refuse the injunction asked for by Bishop Beckwith. The diocese of Georgia has never made any claim to this property; it has been in the undisturbed and unquestioned presents in the

At this point the prominent member was called away and the interview terminated.

One of the happiest matrimonial alliances that has ever been effected in this city occurred yesterday morning at the residence of the Hon. W. L. Scruggs, on Windsor street, the contracting parties being Miss Susie Scruggs and Mr. J. C. Jenkins. The ceremony was performed in a beautiful and impressive manner by the Rev. The statement that Avery's plow works had shut down has been commented on as signifishut down has been commented on as significant of unusual depression in trade. Yesterday a reporter of the Courier-Journal called on Samuel L. Avery and asked to what the suspension of work was due.

"It is due," said he, "to the fact that our fiscal year ends May 31; our books have to be closed at that date, and we are now occupied with stock taking. It is our custom to close the works every year early in May. It is true that the drouth has somewhat interfered with southern business this year, but the fallwith southern business this year, but the falling off was not as great as we anticipated last fall. We form an estimate early in the season of the probable demand for plows, and run our works accordingly. For three months this season we ran night and day, and are fully sayisited with the season's business. We have felt no ill effects whatever from the floods, and as to being overstocked, the stock we will carry through the summer will be lighter than usual."

A Pouble Truth

We have said a good deal lately about the PURITY of our cigarettes and all that we have said about them is equally true of the Long Cut. The Leaf Tobacco from which Blackwell's Durham Long Cut is manufactured, possesses a very desirable feature that no other tobacco can lay claim to, viz: the almost total absence of Nitrates and Nicotine.

Step into your dealers' and ask for a citage of Blackwell's Durham Long Cut and see if it isn't just what you have been longing for. Don't be imposed on by imitations. Get the genuine.

THE BOTTOM OUT

For some weeks past we have been selling many lines of goods far below value, now we proposed to reduce an overloaded stock, and to offer prices lower than at any time during the seasor. Twis necessary for Cessar's unsatiated desire for fame that the Rubicon be passed. It is the our mercantile honor that this stock be closed out, and we mean to do it, losses be what they make the proposed of the control of t
